

Mission and Agenda of the Working Group

The Congressional Childrens Study Working Group seeks to:

- Maintain Congressional and national support for the Study, to ensure that future generations and our health care system benefit from the vast amount of information generated by the Study
- Educate the American public, medical research community, and Congress on the successes and milestones of the Study
- Inform Congressional offices of the activities conducted in their districts related to the Study, and encourage participation and foster the progress of the Study
- Connect the Studys ongoing activities with childrens health challenges and trends, and facilitate a dialogue in Congress focused on these topics
