

Transportation

The roadways, railways, and waterways that crisscross the nation are the backbone of society. Congresswoman Matsui believes that it is imperative to maintain and improve these thoroughfares to secure a safe, thriving future for the people of the Sacramento region. Investing in infrastructure projects has historically proven to stimulate the economy and generate good jobs for hard-working Sacramentans. Making those projects green projects, and creating more options for alternatives to auto travel, will reduce congestion on California's roads, reduce air pollution, and contribute to a more sustainable future.
